Dear Friends,

To be a prayer-saturated church is one of the expected outcomes for all Free Methodist congregations. Imagine the blessings and power that could come through prayer saturation!

Paul encouraged the Thessalonian church to “pray continually.” Paul’s words teach us to do the same, leading to prayer saturation.

The National Prayer Ministry exists to help all our congregations achieve this expected outcome. Through encouragement and resourcing. From books to video teaching, to participating in live events throughout the country, our leaders are focused on every local church becoming a biblical house of prayer.

We’re here for you. You can reach out any time to discuss prayer in your local context by contacting me directly at brett.heintzman@fmcusa.org.

Blessings,

Brett Heintzman

Director of the National Prayer Ministry

To be a House of Prayer envisions the entire household of your local congregation to be involved in intercessory prayer for local, regional, and national transformation through the power of the gospel. Go to npmfmc.org to watch “The House of Prayer” a 28-minute video that introduces you to a biblical view of what the House of Prayer truly is.

The House of Prayer is the entire household of the family of God fully engaged in the acts of earnest and humble supplication and worship before God and intervening on behalf of others in our supplications.

The National Prayer Ministry puts an extra emphasis on Intercessory prayer. As the people of God, we have authority to intercede for, to pray on behalf of, those around us with the power of heaven. To learn more, consider watching our School of Intercession video series.

Listening Prayer Series

Prayer is a conversation between us and our loving Heavenly Father. Praying according to God’s will (1 John 5:14-15) requires that we learn how to listen for His voice. This series takes us through strategic practices to learn how to better listen for Holy Spirit’s voice as we pray.
